Stanford

lauryn chew

Undergraduate, Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity

Bio

BIO

lauryn chew (she/they) is a first-year undergraduate at Stanford University and the director of OC Focus, a student collective engaging in consciousness raising and multimedia storytelling using an ethnic studies lens. Through community organizing, reciprocal political education, and creative resistance, she seeks to build toward transnational decolonial solidarities that encompass justice and belonging for Indigenous peoples alongside refugee settlers and Third World peoples.