Stanford

Dana Reason

Visiting Scholar, Music

Bio

BIO

Canadian-born composer, pianist, and musicologist, Dana Reason works at the intersection of contemporary music, improvisation, film scoring, and sound studies research. She holds degrees from McGill University, Mills College, and UC San Diego, where she earned a PhD in Critical Studies and Experimental Practices (Advisor: George E. Lewis). She is currently a visiting scholar at Stanford University (2026-2027), and Associate Professor at Oregon State University.