

Kat Adams Shannon

Affiliate, Psychology

Bio

BIO

Kat studies how young children adapt their attention and learning behaviors to best match different early environments, with particular focus on understanding variability and strengths in contexts of early adversity. A key aim of her research is to create and collaborate on innovative uses of technology and statistical methods to support health, education, and developmental science.

INSTITUTE AFFILIATIONS

- Member, Maternal & Child Health Research Institute (MCHRI)