Stanford

Kari Hanson

Lecturer, Institute for Computational and Mathematical Engineering (ICME)

Bio

BIO

Kari is a former technology executive with a passion for entrepreneurship, innovation, business strategy and making the world a better place. Having worked as a coach, investor, advisor, board member and CFO, she enjoys empowering students and entrepreneurs to thrive in life, the classroom and the marketplace.

ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS

- Lecturer, Institute for Computational and Mathematical Engineering (ICME)

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- Coaching Certification, Coaching Transformation Academy (2020)
- MBA, New York University , Entrepreneurship (2000)
- BS, University of Nebraska - Lincoln , Actuarial Science (1992)

Teaching

COURSES

2025-26

- Healthcare Acceleration: Artificial Intelligence: BMDS 272, DESIGN 266 (Aut)

2023-24

- Applied Data Science: CME 218, MS&E 218 (Aut)