Irene is an assistant professor in Management Science & Engineering at Stanford University. Her research is on designing matching markets and assignment processes to improve market outcomes, with a focus on public sector applications and socially responsible operations research. She is also interested in mechanism design for social good and graph theory.

ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS
• Assistant Professor, Management Science and Engineering

LINKS
• Personal Website: https://sites.google.com/view/irene-lo

Teaching

COURSES
2019-20
• Introduction to Operations Management: MS&E 260 (Win)
• Market Design and Resource Allocation in Non-Profit Settings: MS&E 366 (Aut)