

Stanford

Danielle Polevoi

Professional Overview

BIO

Danielle Polevoi is a recently board certified physician assistant who graduated from Stanford University School of Medicine's Master of Science in Physician Assistant Studies program with a concentration in Medical Education. During PA school, she was selected as one of fifteen students nationwide to participate in The PAEA's Future Educator Fellowship program. She was also chosen by Stanford MSPA faculty as one of three students in the Class of 2022 to represent our program in the AAPA Virtual Challenge Bowl in 2021.

Prior to getting her master's degree, Danielle attended UCLA where she received a B.S. in Biology. In order to gain patient care experience for PA school, she worked as an Emergency Department Scribe at Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center and as a medical assistant in a gynecologic surgery group.

Danielle was born and raised in San Francisco. She is eager to begin her career at SHC in the Medical ICU taking care of critically ill patients.

CLINICAL FOCUS

- Physician Assistant
- Medical ICU

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- Board Certification: Physician Assistant, National Commission on Certification of Physician Assistants (2022)
- MSPA, Stanford School of Medicine , Physician Assistant Studies (2022)
- BS, University of California, Los Angeles , Biology (2017)

Scientific Focus

PUBLICATIONS

- Antimicrobial peptides and the gut microbiome in inflammatory bowel disease. World journal of gastroenterology
Gubatan, J., Holman, D. R., Puntasecca, C. J., Polevoi, D., Rubin, S. J., Rogalla, S.
2021; 27 (43): 7402-7422
- Extubation to high-flow nasal cannula in critically ill surgical patients. The Journal of surgical research
Dhillon, N. K., Smith, E. J., Ko, A., Harada, M. Y., Polevoi, D., Liang, R., Barmparas, G., Ley, E. J.
2017; 217: 258-264