

Tom C Quach

Affiliate, Medicine - Med/Infectious Diseases

Bio

BIO

Coterminal Master's student at Stanford University, studying Community Health and Prevention Research.

I'm passionate about healthcare innovation, patient advocacy, and public health research. During my time at Stanford, I have collaborated closely with the Stanford Long COVID Clinic, working on clinical research surrounding the conditions pathophysiology and associations with ME/CFS, as well as national clinical trials for therapeutics. I have also conducted basic science research in the Helms Lab, examining healing trajectories for post-cleft surgical procedures.