Stanford

Hanna Ahn

Assistant University Archivist, Special Collections

Bio

BIO

As the Assistant University Archivist, I am responsible for accessioning, processing, and cataloging materials that document the history of Stanford University. Additionally, I collaborate with subject specialists on various projects and collections related to university history, manage our student assistant program during the academic year, and work with historically marginalized university community members to provide diverse representation across our archival collections.

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Assistant University Archivist

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- BA, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign , Creative Writing and English Literature (2008)
- MLIS, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign , Library and Information Science (2009)