Edward Eid, MD is a staff scientist in the Department of Dermatology at Stanford University working with Professor Jean Tang.

He received his medical degree from University of Beirut. After graduation, he completed his dermatology residency training at the University of Beirut Medical Center.

His current work focuses on clinical trials for rare genetic disorders of the skin including gene therapy for recessive dystrophic epidermolysis bullosa.

When he is not working, Edward enjoys his spare time reading, jogging, drumming, and going to the gym.
