Stanford

Christian Figueroa

Undergraduate, History

Bio

BIO

Christian Figueroa is a political communications professional with experience in campaigns, local and federal government, and state party politics. Christian currently leads communications strategy for U.S. Representative Derek Tran's reelection campaign in California's 45th District, including his successful Frontline victory in the 2026 midterm election. He previously held roles with U.S. Senator Alex Padilla, Los Angeles Mayor Karen Bass, and the California Democratic Party. He studies history at Stanford University and serves on the executive board of the California Democratic Party. He is based in California and Washington, D.C.