Stanford

Vivek Datta MD MPH

Adjunct Clinical Associate Professor, Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences

Bio

BIO

Dr. Datta is a clinical and forensic neuropsychiatrist in private practice (https://www.theneuropsychiatrist.com/) in San Francisco. He teaches in the Stanford Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship on neuropsychiatry and sex offender evaluation and management. He is quintuple certified in psychiatry, forensic psychiatry, addiction medicine, brain injury medicine, and behavioral neurology & neuropsychiatry.

He specializes in the evaluation and treatment of functional neurological disorders, early onset dementias, mild cognitive impairment, subjective cognitive decline, psychiatric manifestations of neurological disease, somatoform disorders, factitious disorders, traumatic brain injury, and trauma-related disorders. He maintains an outpatient neuropsychiatry practice and provides forensic evaluations and consultation to the courts and attorneys on psycholegal issues.

His academic interests are at the intersection of neurology, psychiatry, society and the law, with a smattering of philosophy, arts and humanities thrown in.