

Stanford

Uday Jarajapu

- Ipl Temp Employee, Immigration Policy Lab
- Staff, Immigration Policy Lab

Bio

BIO

Uday currently serves as Technical co-founder and CTO at Typerighter.ai. Prior to that, he joined Stanford's IPL as a software engineer for GeoMatch in September 2024, where he worked with the IPL team to develop a service that maximizes economic outcomes for immigrants, asylum seekers and refugees.

Uday is working on his GSB LEAD certification from Stanford Graduate School of Business and earned his Masters in Engineering from University of Toledo. He previously spent a decade working on the Maps team at Apple and the Relational Databases team at AWS as an engineer. Prior to that, he spent a decade working at various startups in Silicon Valley, most notably Trulia (now Zillow), Edusoft (now Houghton Mifflin) and OPOWER (now Oracle). When not at a computer, Uday enjoys hiking, reading, making music and writing.