Professional Overview

BIO

Dr. Gwen Ho is a board-certified hematologist-oncologist currently practicing at Stanford Cancer Center South Bay through University Medical Partners. With over a decade of clinical experience, she brings extensive expertise in treating blood disorders and cancer. Prior to joining Stanford, Dr. Ho served as a senior oncology physician with The Permanente Medical Group, where she was selected for the Emerging Medical Leaders program. She also maintained a private practice in Marin, where she played a key role in coordinating their multidisciplinary cancer care conference.

Dr. Ho completed her medical degree at UC San Francisco, followed by an internal medicine residency at UC Davis where she served as Chief Resident. She went on to complete her hematology-oncology fellowship at UC Davis, during which she also earned a Master of Applied Science degree through the Mentored Clinical Research Training Program. Throughout her career, Dr. Ho has demonstrated a strong commitment to both clinical care and research. Her research contributions have been published in respected journals including Cancer, the American Journal of Hematology, and the British Journal of Haematology. She has been recognized with multiple honors, including the American Society of Hematology HONORS Award, UC Davis Trainee Research and Outstanding Teaching Awards and induction into the Gold Humanism Honor Society and Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Society.

She is passionately committed to providing personalized, patient-centered and humanistic care for her patients.
