Stanford

Neshanth Anand

Undergraduate, Vice Provost for Undergraduate Education

Bio

BIO

Neshanth Anand is an incoming undergraduate at Stanford University, planning to study computer science with a focus on design and human-computer interaction. He is particularly interested in accessible technology, ethical design, and the role of AI in shaping inclusive user experiences of users with disadvantaged capabilities and divergent learning scenarios.