Stanford

Anuhya Roy Banerjee

Undergraduate, Biology

Bio

BIO

Hi! I am a transfer student from American River College and a Sacramento native, now part of Stanford's Class of 2027. I am majoring in Human Biology, though I hold deep interests in understanding environmental microbiology and public health. My recent research explores microbial communities in local waterways through metagenomic analysis. Outside the lab, I'm an avid hiker and a dog lover. Beyond academics I am deeply committed to supporting and advocating for women affected by abuse. I hope to create spaces of understanding, empowerment, and solidarity for others facing similar challenges, reminding them they are never alone.