BIO

I completed both my diagnostic radiology residency at Indiana University School of Medicine and my MBA at the Kelley School of Business Indiana University on June 2025. I am currently pursuing my fellowship in Musculoskeletal Radiology at Stanford. My healthcare-related interests and research primarily involve applying real world business practices in radiology for optimal efficiency and maximizing value (e.g. using linear regression analysis to finding variables that impact volume of CT studies at the ER). Outside of healthcare, I have entrepreneurial interests particularly in the area of venture capitalism for tech and service companies. Prior to medical school, I ran my family's floral bouquet company in California.
