Linda Munyengeterwa is IFC's Global Director of Transaction Advisory - PPPs and Corporate Finance. Her role involves working with teams around the world to design public-private partnerships (PPPs) and collaborate with private sector clients on corporate finance solutions. These activities mobilise private sector capital in developing countries, aiming to deliver tangible impact. The Transaction Advisory team has experience advising governments on designing and bringing to market commercially viable PPPs across various sectors to provide infrastructure and social services to communities. The Transaction Advisory team is on track to deliver nearly $6 billion in private capital mobilisation, contributing 20-25% to IFC's Core Mobilisation. In FY24, the team delivered $4.9 billion in private capital mobilisation.

Linda became the Global Director in 2022 after serving as the Regional Industry Director (RID) for Africa and Middle East Infrastructure for nearly four years. As RID, she focused on growing IFC's investment operations and advisory services in energy, transportation, telecommunications, media and technology, mining, and municipal and environmental infrastructure across these regions. During her tenure in Africa, the business grew to over $2bn annually, providing infrastructure access and services to millions.

Before joining IFC, Linda worked as an investment banker in the mergers and acquisition teams of JPMorgan and Fleming Martin.
