Stanford

Natalle Yu

- Postdoctoral Medical Fellow, Infectious Diseases
- Masters Student in Epidemiology and Clinical Research, admitted Autumn 2025

Bio

BIO

Natalle Yu is a Pediatric Infectious Diseases Fellow at Stanford University and is pursuing an MS in Epidemiology and Clinical Research. Her research focuses on malaria epidemiology, global child health, and the application of epidemiologic methods to evaluate infectious disease interventions. She is particularly interested in translating epidemiologic research into evidence-based public health policies and programs to improve child health.