Mariam Atallah is a photographer and filmmaker rooted in Cairo, Egypt, where she earned her bachelor's degree in filmmaking and first discovered her creative spark through the city's lively streets. Her work examines connections and tensions between Egypt and the United States, exploring how political, social, and personal systems intersect across both contexts. She has been a Diverse Voices in Docs Fellow at Kartemquin Films, and her films have screened at the Toronto Arab Film Festival and the Egyptian American Film Festival.
