I was raised in Saint Louis County, MO and completed my undergraduate degree in Biochemistry at The University of Missouri – Columbia. I'm most excited by translational problems that can be addressed through the structural understanding and engineering of biological molecules. At Stanford, I look forward to joining a collaborative community that spans broad scientific disciplines, and to contributing to research that advances human health. I love spending my extra time playing the drums, and I have served as a snare drummer for the world-class Madison Scouts and Cavaliers drum corps.
