Stanford

Samuel Marks

Affiliate, Pediatrics - Endocrinology

Bio

BIO

Starting with the University of Sydney PhD (Medicine) research that created technologies to facilitate large-scale screening programs for glaucoma and diabetic retinopathy; I continued onto Harvard Medical School to work on Big Data (specifically 2TB of fundus photos); along the way gaining multi-million dollar in-kind grants from Google.

At Stanford Medical School I work both on Health Systems Engineering and technologies to improve pædiatric T1D care.