BIO

I am working with Stanford as a product manager with the LEVANTE Project (<https://levante-network.org/>), through CogKnit Labs (<https://cogknit.uk>). I completed my PhD at the University of Edinburgh, where I was jointly supervised between Psychology and Linguistics. I collaborate with linguists, psychologists, and complex systems scientists to study the evolution of social systems, cognition, and culture, with a particular focus on language and communication. My methodological expertise lies in computational agent-based modelling, large-scale historical corpora, and web-based behavioural experiments (especially including gamification and "multi-player" approaches).
