Stanford

Stephanie Jordan

Postdoctoral Scholar, Emergency Medicine

Bio

BIO

Stephanie's research focuses on social and environmental determinants of health, U.S. public health policy, health services implementation science, and global health. Her research employs primarily quantitative methods. She received her PhD in Public Policy and Sociology from Duke University, where her dissertation analyzed the population health impacts of U.S. state public service expenditures on social, environmental, and healthcare services.

HONORS AND AWARDS

- German-American Academic Exchange Association RISE Scholar, German Academic Exchange Association (2018)
- Barry Goldwater Scholarship, Barry Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Foundation (2019)

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- PhD, Duke University (2025)
- BA, Middlebury College (2020)

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Michelle Lin, Postdoctoral Faculty Sponsor

Publications

PUBLICATIONS

- Assessing an educational strategy to improve community health provider-led provision of cervical cancer screening services in western Kenya: A secondary analysis of the Elimisha-HPV cluster-randomized controlled trial. Global health & medicine
  Chepkoech, P., Jordan, S. B., Makhulo, B., Ambaka, J., Odhiambo, F., Otieno, E. O., Egger, J., Huchko, M.
  2026; 8 (5): 332-341
- Assessing an educational strategy to improve community health provider-led provision of cervical cancer screening services in western Kenya: A secondary analysis of the Elimisha-HPV cluster-randomized controlled trial GLOBAL HEALTH & MEDICINE
  Chepkoech, P., Jordan, S. B., Makhulo, B., Ambaka, J., Odhiambo, F., Otieno, E., Egger, J., Huchko, M.
  2026
- Heterogeneous Treatment Effects of a Prescription for Produce Subsidy on Diabetes Care Management. Diabetes, obesity, and cardiometabolic CARE
  Jordan, S. B., Dennis, P. A., Spratt, S. E., German, J. C., Brucker, A., Wirth, C., Curran, N., Hinz, E. M., Drake, C. D.
  2026; 1 (3): 468-477