

Stephanie B. Jordan

Postdoctoral Scholar, Emergency Medicine

Bio

BIO

Stephanie's research focuses on social and environmental determinants of health, U.S. public health policy, global health, and health services implementation science. Her research employs primarily quantitative methods. She received her PhD in Public Policy and Sociology from Duke University, where her dissertation focused on the population health impacts of U.S. state public service expenditures on social, environmental, and healthcare services.

HONORS AND AWARDS

- German-American Academic Exchange Association RISE Scholar, German-American Academic Exchange Association (2018)
- Barry Goldwater Scholarship, Barry Goldwater Scholarship & Excellence in Education Foundation (2019)

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- Doctor of Philosophy, Duke University (2025)
- Bachelor of Arts, Middlebury College (2020)

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Michelle Lin, Postdoctoral Faculty Sponsor