Bio

BIO

Cody Hartley is an enrollment marketing veteran with deep roots in higher education and an extensive background in both nonprofit and for profit organizations. Following a decade in university admissions, he went on to direct enrollment and marketing for the Semester at Sea global education program at the University of Virginia. Before coming to Stanford, he headed up enrollment for a Bay Area-based gap year organization.

Cody is a longtime member of the board of directors for AMP Global Youth, a student-driven nonprofit focused on empowering high school leaders to make an impact on global issues.

An educator at heart, Cody has lectured at institutions in the U.S. and abroad and led university study abroad programs in eight countries. He was also the head coach of a semi-pro baseball team in Nordrhein-Westfalen, Germany.
