

Stanford

Siddharth Aphale

Graduate, Stanford Center for Professional Development

Bio

BIO

Hi, I am a data scientist working on cloud battery analytics and a part time student at Stanford University pursuing a graduate certificate in artificial intelligence. My work focuses on developing diagnostic and prognostic algorithms for battery packs used in automotive and energy storage applications.

My research interests primarily revolve around language model post training dynamics and deep reinforcement learning.