BIO

I am a Brazilian medical student with a strong academic focus on neurosurgery and neurovascular research. I am the founder of MB Community, an educational initiative that teaches research methodology, including systematic reviews and meta-analyses, to medical students, with over 800 enrolled learners.

I have authored over 80 PubMed-indexed publications, with more than 400 citations on Google Scholar. I am currently completing a clinical clerkship in Neuroradiology at Stanford, where I am expanding my training in neuroimaging and neurovascular disease.
