Stanford

Linnea Burke, MD

Postdoctoral Scholar, General Surgery

Bio

BIO

Linnea Burke is a general surgery resident at Loma Linda University Health and a research fellow in the Division of Minimally Invasive and Bariatric Surgery at Stanford University. Her research interests include minimally invasive and bariatric surgery, healthcare disparities and implications on clinical outcomes, health services and policy, quality improvement, and the application of AI to improve surgical care.

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- Bachelor of Science, Andrews University (2018)
- Doctor of Medicine, Loma Linda University (2022)