Stanford

Daniel Leva

MBA, expected graduation 2028

Bio

BIO

Daniel Leva is a candidate for a Masters of Business Administration degree from the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University.

Previously, Daniel was a Project Leader in the New York office of the Boston Consulting Group. At BCG, he led teams primarily on strategy projects for organizations across the financial services and social impact sectors.

Earlier, he was the Manager for the Africa Strategy at the United Nations Global Compact in New York. There, he managed the Africa Business Leaders Coalition, working closely with business leaders to drive climate action and promote women's economic opportunity. He partnered with companies, governments, and multilateral institutions to translate commitments into action.

Daniel graduated summa cum laude from the Huntsman Program at the University of Pennsylvania. He earned a B.S. in Finance and Management from the Wharton School and a B.A. in International Studies and Hispanic Studies from the College of Arts & Sciences. He also minored in International Development.

These academic and professional experiences shaped Daniel's strong interest in how thoughtfully designed business can expand economic opportunity and improve lives.

HONORS AND AWARDS

- Class of 1975 Management Award, University of Pennsylvania, the Wharton School (May 2021)
- Phi Beta Kappa, University of Pennsylvania (May 2021)
- Beta Gamma Sigma, University of Pennsylvania, the Wharton School (November 2019)

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- B.S. in Economics, University of Pennsylvania, The Wharton School , Concentrations: Finance & Management (2021)
- B.A., University of Pennsylvania, College of Arts & Sciences , Majors: International Studies & Hispanic Studies; Minor: International Development (Political Science) (2021)

LINKS

- LinkedIn: https://www.linkedin.com/in/daniel-leva/