Stanford

Kim Reuter

Overseas Studies - Berlin, Bing Overseas Studies

Bio

BIO

Dr. Kim Reuter is an expert in environmental sustainability, climate change, and international development/diplomacy. With a PhD in Biology from Temple University (Philadelphia, PA), Kim is an author on almost 100 peer-reviewed publications and books, and has more than 15 years of hands-on experience in international climate and sustainability expertise gained at the World Bank, the UK Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office, World Wide Fund for Nature, and Conservation International. Kim has worked in more than 20 African countries throughout her career as British diplomat and for regional non-governmental organisations and has taught at the university level on subjects related to climate change, ecology, and biology. Kim is a 2016 National Geographic Explorer and 2020 Churchill Fellow.