Hello! I am working with John Havlik, M.D. and Jonathan Chen, M.D, Ph.D on clinical AI safety.

I hold a degree in Computer and Information Science from Cornell University. My interests emerged with the inescapable curiosity for the intersection of technology, medicine, business, and human-centered design. I am especially interested in building technology that improves patient care and clinical decision-making.

Outside of work and research, I enjoy reading, writing, visual design, and running.
