Program and engagement leader who builds programs, partnerships, and communities that last. With experience across nonprofit, tech, and higher education, I partner with diverse teams to bring programs to life — improving processes, solving problems, and scaling what works so more people and communities can grow, connect, and advance their mission. My connection to Stanford runs a few ways: I completed four courses in Stanford's Advanced Project Management program, and I am currently proctoring exams at the Stanford Graduate School of Business.
