Stanford

Rob Jordan

Associate Editor, Environment and Sustainability, Woods Institute

Bio

BIO

Rob is a science writer and editor at the Stanford Woods Institute for the Environment and the Stanford Doerr School of Sustainability. He works with researchers to share their findings with broader audiences through news features, Q&As, explainers, press materials, videos, and multimedia projects. His work covers climate, water, energy, oceans, health, and conservation. He also supports media outreach and helps faculty and students communicate their research to policymakers, journalists and the public.

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Associate Editor, Environment and Sustainability, Stanford Woods Institute for the Environment

LINKS

- Stanford Woods Institute for the Environment: woods.stanford.edu