MarYam Hamedani, PhD
Sr Research Scholar, Psychology

Bio

MarYam Hamedani, Ph.D., is Managing Director and Senior Research Scientist at SPARQ. She studies and puts into practice strategies to help people live, work, and thrive in today’s increasingly diverse and divided world. At SPARQ, she works on improving police-community relations, promoting racial literacy, educating people about social differences, and designing empowering schools and programs for underrepresented students. The former Associate Director of Stanford’s Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity (CCSRE) and the Stanford Center for Opportunity Policy in Education (SCOPE), Dr. Hamedani is also a Stanford Ph.D. alum in Psychology.

ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS

• Sr Research Scholar, Psychology

ADMINISTRATIVE APPOINTMENTS

• Managing Director & Senior Research Scientist, Stanford SPARQ, (2018- present)