Megan Glatzel
Communications Associate, Woods Institute

Bio

Megan joined the Water in the West program and the Woods Institute for the Environment as a program coordinator in October 2016. She has since moved into her role as a communications associate. Megan is the social media manager for the Woods social media accounts as well as some of the program accounts. She is also the editor for the Water in the West Newsletter. Her other duties include event marketing, maintaining websites and mailing lists, project management on reports, and assisting on special projects. Before coming to Water in the West, Megan worked in the Stanford Department of Economics as a faculty support administrator from 2010-2016.

Megan received her B.A. in Environmental Studies from University of California, Santa Barbara. She enjoys spending her time baking, exploring new cities and reading.

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Communications Associate at Water in the West and the Woods Institute for the Environment.