

Ashley Fabrizio

Lecturer
Political Science

Bio

BIO

Ashley Fabrizio is a political scientist and quantitative researcher with experience answering descriptive and inferential questions in technology, academic, and government sectors using observational, survey, and data science methods. She is an expert in global issues of political mobilization, coercive governance, nationalism, human rights, and radicalization. Before joining More in Common, Ashley was a senior quantitative researcher at Meta. She received her M.A. and Ph.D. from Stanford University and B.A. from Harvard College.

ACADEMIC APPOINTMENTS

- Lecturer, Political Science

Teaching

COURSES

2025-26

- Democracy in the Balance: Polarization and the Road Ahead: POLISCI 293 (Spr)

2024-25

- Democracy in the Balance: Polarization and the Road Ahead: POLISCI 293 (Spr)

2023-24

- Democracy in the Balance: Polarization and the Road Ahead: POLISCI 293 (Spr)