BIO

I am an Earth scientist currently pursuing my PhD. in the Remote Sensing Ecohydrology Group at Stanford University. I develop technologies to measure forest health using remote sensing and machine learning to assess climate change impacts on the Earth System, including droughts and wildfires. Read more at https://krishnakrao.github.io/