Stanford

Joshua Capitanio

Curator for East & Southeast Asian Studies and Religious Studies Collections, East Asia Library

Bio

BIO

Curator for East & Southeast Asian Studies

Curator for Religious Studies Collections

Public Services Librarian, East Asia Library

As Curator for East and Southeast Asian Studies and Curator for Religious Studies Collections, I am responsible for developing Stanford's Western-language collections in the areas of East and Southeast Asian studies, and for curating print and electronic materials for the study of both Eastern and Western religious traditions. As Public Services Librarian at the East Asia Library, I manage the library's outreach activities, such as exhibits and other events.

ORCID: https://orcid.org/0000-0003-3092-352X

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Curator for East & Southeast Asian Studies

Curator for Religious Studies Collections

Public Services Librarian, East Asia Library

Publications

PUBLICATIONS

- Discourses of Efficacy in the Ritual Use of Daoist Talismans JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF RELIGION
  Capitanio, J.
  2023
- Epidemics and Plague in Premodern Chinese Buddhism Asian Medicine
  Capitanio, J.
  2021; 16 (1): 177-192
- Ritual and Self-Cultivation in the Daoist Practice of "Oblatory Refinement" NUMEN-INTERNATIONAL REVIEW FOR THE HISTORY OF RELIGIONS
  Capitanio, J.
  2020; 67 (1): 29-72
- SANSKRIT AND PSEUDO-SANSKRIT INCANTATIONS IN DAOIST RITUAL TEXTS HISTORY OF RELIGIONS
  Capitanio, J.

2018; 57 (4): 348-405

- Buddhist Tales of Lu Dongbin TOUNG PAO
  Capitanio, J.
  2016; 102 (4-5): 448-502
- Portrayals of Chan Buddhism in the Literature of Internal Alchemy Journal of Chinese Religions
  Capitanio, J.
  2015; 43 (2): 119-160