Alexander Haigh

Masters Student in Computational and Mathematical Engineering, admitted Spring 2017

BIO

Alex was born in Boston and attended Belmont Hill School before arriving at Stanford in September, 2014. As an undergraduate, he majored in Computer Science concentrating in AI, and, outside of his own coursework, was a Teaching Assistant for CS106A, the Vice President of his fraternity, and the captain of the men's lacrosse team. As he progressed through his CS major, Alex found that he was increasingly attracted to the mathematical side of his coursework and decided to pursue a Master's Degree in Computational and Mathematical Engineering. After graduation, Alex is interested in building consumer products that leverage AI to provide a better user experience.
