Kristin Keane's research and interests focus on the teaching and learning of literacy, specifically the ways multimodal and critical literacies can be used to drive equity-centered pedagogies in classrooms and enhance engagement, interpretation, and dialogic discussion of varied types of text.