

Stanford

Keyi Zhang

Ph.D. Student in Computer Science, admitted Autumn 2017

Bio

BIO

Keyi is a PhD student advised by Mark Horowitz. His current research interest is in agile hardware design, such as hardware generator and place and route algorithms. He received B.S. in Computer Science and Engineering from Bucknell University.

Publications

PUBLICATIONS

- Learning in situ: a randomized experiment in video streaming
Yan, F. Y., Ayers, H., Zhu, C., Fouladi, S., Hong, J., Zhang, K., Levis, P., Winstein, K., USENIX Assoc
USENIX ASSOC.2020: 495–511
- Online Model Distillation for Efficient Video Inference
Mullapudi, R., Chen, S., Zhang, K., Ramanan, D., Fatahalian, K., IEEE
IEEE COMPUTER SOC.2019: 3572–81