

Stanford

Danielle Marie Greene

- Ph.D. Student in Education, admitted Autumn 2017
- Ph.D. Student in Education, admitted Autumn 2017
- Ph.D. Minor, Linguistics

Bio

BIO

Danielle Greene is a 5th year Ph.D. candidate in the Race, Inequality, and Language in Education (RILE) and Curriculum Studies and Teacher Education (CTE) programs at the Graduate School of Education. From Virginia, Danielle previously taught middle school Social Studies in an urban district before coming to Stanford. Focusing on the social context of education, her research explores teaching cultures and language practices within K-12 public schools that have majority African American students, faculty, and staffs. Specifically, Danielle centers African American resistances to linguistic, cultural, and physical Black displacement and dispossession in schools and their surrounding communities. Finally, she also has the immense pleasure of serving as the Chief of Staff of the Richmond Resilience Initiative - a guaranteed income pilot serving working-class residents of Richmond, Virginia.

Teaching

COURSES

2020-21

- Curriculum and Instruction in History and Social Science: EDUC 268B (Aut)

2019-20

- LSP First Year Seminar: UAR 42A (Aut)
- LSP First Year Seminar B: UAR 42B (Win)
- Race, Ethnicity, and Linguistic Diversity in Classrooms: Sociocultural Theory and Practices: AFRICAAM 106, CSRE 103B, EDUC 103B, EDUC 337 (Aut)

2018-19

- LSP First Year Seminar: UAR 42A (Aut)
- LSP First Year Seminar B: UAR 42B (Win)
- Race, Ethnicity, and Linguistic Diversity in Classrooms: Sociocultural Theory and Practices: AFRICAAM 106, CSRE 103B, EDUC 103B, EDUC 337 (Aut)

Publications

PUBLICATIONS

- School Closures and the Gentrification of the Black Metropolis SOCIOLOGY OF EDUCATION
Pearman, F. A., Greene, D.
2022
- 'It's just how we articulate the Blackness in us': African American teachers, Black students, and African American Language RACE ETHNICITY AND EDUCATION
Greene, D.

2021

- The Trifecta Framework: Preparing Agents of Change in Urban Education URBAN EDUCATION

Ball, A. F., Greene, D., Friedman, J. L., Dray, B. J.

2021