Professional Overview

BIO

Dr. Alexander D. Pham specializes in Hematology/Oncology, Hospice and Palliative Care Medicine. He specializes in general medical oncology including breast, genitourinary, and gastrointestinal cancers, as well as all types of benign and malignant hematologic conditions such as chronic leukemias, lymphomas, antiphospholipid syndrome, and coagulation disorders.

Dr. Pham's early personal experiences with cancer have fueled his desire to develop genuine, intimate relationships with his patients, and to provide compassionate care. He hopes to sustain this commitment to improving quality of care overall, throughout his career.
