

Stanford

Nicholas Alexander Hakes

- Stanford Cert Project Coordinator, Environmental Health and Safety (EH&S)
- Undergraduate, Philosophy

Bio

BIO

My professional goal is to become a trauma surgeon in the military because I want to serve my country while saving the lives of American heroes wounded in the fight for freedom.

Trauma is my passion. Whether I am in the ambulance, the helicopter, the trauma bay, the operating room, or the intensive care unit, I am fascinated by emergency medicine and critical care, specifically trauma and burns.

I am constantly seeking opportunities to work, volunteer, shadow, and research. To assist me in my endeavors, please contact me at 330-990-8599 or hakesn@stanford.edu.

When not in scrubs, I enjoy spontaneous adventures, skydiving, water skiing, running, soccer, longboarding, and listening to country music.