

Arash Alavi

Software Engineering Director, Genetics

Bio

BIO

Arash is the director of software engineering at Stanford Deep Data Research Center, Stanford University. He received his Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of California, Riverside in September 2019. Arash has worked on several secure, scalable, and intelligent platforms for real-time precision medicine. Arash has co-lead the development of the MyPHD (Personal Health Dashboard) platform and has contributed in several research projects at Snyder lab and SCGPM (Stanford Center for Genomics and Personalized Medicine).

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Software Engineering Director

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- PhD, University of California, Riverside , Computer Science (2019)