

Stanford

Arash Alavi

Senior Software Researcher and Engineer, Genetics

Bio

BIO

Arash is a senior software engineer and researcher at Stanford School of Medicine. He received his Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of California, Riverside in September 2019. He is working on building novel secure, scalable, and intelligent platforms for real-time precision medicine. Arash has co-lead the development of the PHD (Personal Health Dashboard) platform and has contributed in several research projects at Snyder lab and SCGPM (Stanford Center for Genomics and Personalized Medicine).

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

Software Researcher and Engineer

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- PhD, University of California, Riverside , Computer Science (2019)