

Stanford

Erik Wiesehan

Ph.D. Student in Health Policy, admitted Autumn 2019

Bio

BIO

Erik is a PhD student in the Department of Health Research and Policy at Stanford University. Since 2006, he has been serving in the United States Army as a commissioned medical services officer, working predominately within its own system for health in the areas of operations, finance, and analytics. His most recently completed assignment was as the Chief Financial Officer for the Fort Knox, KY Medical Activity. His research interests reside in applying economic evaluations, simulations, and modeling to examine the costs and outcomes to the practices, policies, and overall design in health care affecting Maternal and Child Health.

EDUCATION AND CERTIFICATIONS

- BS, Santa Clara University , Psychology (2006)
- MHA, Baylor University , Health Administration (2016)
- MBA, Baylor University , Business Administration (2016)

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Jeremy Goldhaber-Fiebert, Doctoral Dissertation Advisor (AC)
- Laurence Baker, Doctoral (Program)