BIO

Elizabeth Hoyte has worked at Stanford University for over 25 years. She manages communications for the Department of Neurology and Neurological Sciences, the ADRC, as well as over 30 neuroscience research labs in addition to social media. When not developing and managing websites and curating content for social media, she is raising two young boys with her husband in the beautiful state of Colorado.

CURRENT ROLE AT STANFORD

I am currently the Communications Manager for the Department of Neurology and Neurological Sciences where I manage both internal and external comms. I maintain over 30 School of Medicine websites, multiple newsletters, posters, and social media channels.
