Stanford

Chenhui Qiu

Postdoctoral Scholar, Radiation Physics

Bio

BIO

Chenhui Qiu majored in Biomedical Engineering and received Ph.D at Zhejiang University.

Then, was a postdoc and research assistant (medium-grade professional title) at Department of Applied Mathematics, School of Mathematical Sciences, Zhejiang University.

Currently, is a postdoc at Department of Radiation Oncology, School of Medicine, Stanford University.

His research interests are medical image registration & fusion, radiation-based neuromodulation & neuro-oncology, dose calculation & treatment planning, wavelet & sparse representation, intelligent computing, convex optimization, AI machine learning.

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Dimitre Hristov, Postdoctoral Research Mentor
- Lei Xing, Postdoctoral Faculty Sponsor