

Ting-An Lin

Postdoctoral Scholar, Philosophy

Bio

BIO

Ting-An Lin is an Interdisciplinary Ethics Postdoctoral Fellow at the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society, with a partnership affiliation with the Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI).

Before joining Stanford, she earned her PhD in philosophy from Rutgers University, where she also received a Graduate Certificate in women's and gender studies.

Her research interests lie at the intersection of ethics, political philosophy, and feminist philosophy, with a particular focus on how new forms of technology (such as AI) shape social structures and impose constraints on different groups of people.

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

- Master of Arts, Texas Tech University (2016)
- Doctor of Philosophy, Rutgers University (2022)
- Bachelor of Science, National Taiwan University (2012)
- PhD, Rutgers University, Philosophy (2022)
- MA, Texas Tech University, Philosophy (2016)
- BS, National Taiwan University, Life Science (2012)

STANFORD ADVISORS

- Leif Wenar, Postdoctoral Faculty Sponsor

LINKS

- My personal website: <https://lintingantw.com/>

Teaching

COURSES

2023-24

- Introduction to Global Justice: ETHICSOC 136R, INTNLREL 136R, PHIL 76, POLISCI 136R, POLISCI 336 (Win)

2022-23

- Markets, Ethics, and Society: ETHICSOC 182M (Aut)